MANISTIQUE — Miner Strong, 85, of 531 Manistique Ave., died this morning at the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital following an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Strong was born Aug. 4, 1880 in Sherman City, Mich., and he had resided in Manistique for the past nine years. He was a retired salesman of highway equipment. His wife, the former Maude Kearns, died March 26, 1956.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Jack (Leona) Williams of Manistique; a sister, Mrs. Clarence Lutz, St. Helens, Mich., and a brother, Earl Strong of Remus, Mich.

Friends may call at the Kefauver and Jackson Funeral Home from 4 to 9:30 p.m. Sunday. Funeral services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Monday at the funeral home and burial will take place in Fairview Cemetery.

MACKINAC Bridge tolls on the vehicle shown above and several others like it will go down beginning Monday morning at midnight. Since the opening of the bridge, all pickup trucks, regardless of their use, have been considered commercial vehicles and charged accordingly. The same was true for house cars which were originally converted buses. Surveys at the bridge reveal that more than 90 per cent of these vehicles are used for recreation and the rate on them will be dropped to $4.25 from $5. On house cars, from $3, and in some cases $7.50, to $4.25.

There are three standard types of instruments in a string quartet—violin, viola and violoncello.

Wirtz Session Has Report Of Some Progress

Wirtz for more time to seek a settlement, followed accusations by some senators that Johnson was trying to pass the buck to Congress.

The committee's proposal, in effect, would pass the buck right back to Johnson.

But it also would give the administration the extra time it asked, leaving it up to Johnson whether and when to order the strike halted.

Organized labor, which influences millions of votes, violently is opposed to any law limiting the right to strike.

The only similar emergency law since World War II, enacted in 1963 to block a threatened strike of railroad firemen, outraged labor leaders and resulted in three years of court litigation. Wirtz called that hasty legislation a "scar" on the nation's labor relations.

While Johnson's intervention seemed to at least get the grounded airline talks back on the runway, it appeared it would take at least several more days before any settlement might come.

A major stumbling block in the stalemate is Johnson's own economic policy that seeks to keep wage hikes within bounds he considers noninflationary.

Wants Profit Limit
Chief airlines negotiator William J. Curtin insisted that any new contract must approximate the White House wage-increase yardstick of 3.2 per cent a year.

P. L. Siemiller, president of the striking AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists, was adamant against any such wage limitation as long as the government put no lid on profits.

Siemiller said the strikers would accept nothing less than the union's demands for increases of 53 cents an hour over three years — amounting to 3 per cent annually — plus added pension and health benefits and a cost-of-living escalator clause.

The last reported offer of the five airlines — United, Eastern, National, Northwest and Trans World — was 50 cents an hour over a 42-month contract, about a 3.8 per cent increase, with few added fringe benefits and no cost-of-living clause except a promise to consider it later if prices keep going up sharply.

Top mechanics now earn $3.52 an hour.

COLLEGE TEACHERS stop for some out-of-classroom shop talk with Prof. John A. Carlson (right) one of the instructors in a six-week graduate study program in economic theory and problems at Purdue University. Winners of all-expense fellowships supported by General Electric Foundation (from left) include Prantosh Nag, Bay de Noc Community College, Escanaba; and John C. Simonson, Alpena. Their study is in Purdue's Krannert Graduate School of Industrial Administration.

In Service
Pvt. Russell A. Lind, 21, the son of Mrs. Freda Foster of 1406 Ludington St., returned from Fort Carson, Colo., where he attended special mechanics training school for two months. He received his basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., and was then assigned to Fort Carson. After a 10-day furlough he will continue his training here with the National Guard. Pvt. Lind is a 1964 graduate of Escanaba High School and was employed at Nu-Way Cleaners before entering military service.

Loren O. Salmi, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene O. Salmi, Eben Junction, was promoted to Army specialist four July 15 near Hanau, Germany, where he is serving with the 88th Heavy Equipment Maintenance Company.

Specialist four is an enlisted rank equivalent to the rank of corporal.

Specialist Salmi, a heavy equipment operator with the company, entered the Army in March 1965 and completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky.

He attended Rock River Township High School, Eben Junction.

Youth Injured In Mill Mishap

Gary Butryn, 20, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Butryn of Pine Ridge, suffered the loss of his right arm in an accident at the Mead Corp. paper mill in Escanaba about 11 a. m. Thursday.

Butryn, a student at Western Michigan University, is employed in the summertime as tour guide out of the laboratory at the Mead mill.

While escorting a tour group, Butryn reached into a slow-moving metering device to get a sample of stock to show the visitors. The machine has blades that rotate very slowly and it measures the quantity of stock going to the machine chests. Because of its slow speed the device has never been considered unsafe.

Butryn's hand was caught by one of the blades and his arm was pulled from his body as the blade moved upward. Employees of the mill controlled the flow of blood and the youth was rushed to St. Francis Hospital. His condition is reported as good today.

The young man is an honor graduate of Escanaba Area High School and received a Western Michigan University scholarship.

State Director Guest Of Group

Stahl Butler, executive director of the Michigan Association for Better Hearing, Lansing, spoke Thursday night at a supper meeting of the Better Hearing and Speech Society at the Escanaba Yacht Club.

The Michigan Association for Better Hearing was organized in 1931 by a group of deaf and hard of hearing volunteers and was carried on by this group until it came under financial sponsorship of the Michigan United Fund in 1951, at which time Butler became executive director.

Butler is a graduate of Southeastern Idaho University, was a teacher and administrator in schools for the deaf in Georgia, New Jersey, Virginia, and taught four years at Galladett College, which is the only college for the deaf in the world and is located in Washington, D. C.

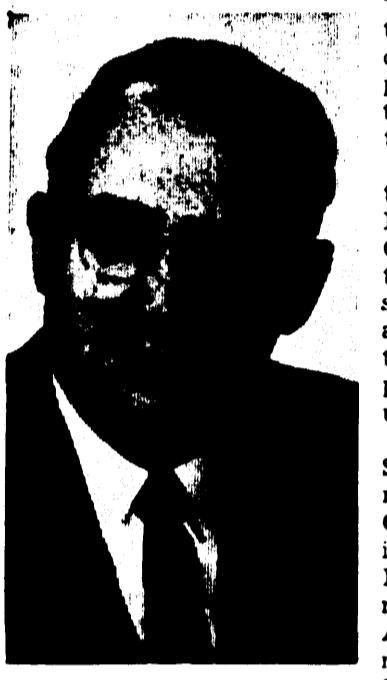

His extensive career includes eight years as principal at the Michigan School for the Deaf at Flint and four years in vocational rehabilitation in Michigan.

Butler described some of the accomplishments of the Michigan Association for Better Hearing which include the testing of all the inmates at Jackson Prison and referrals for ear surgery and hearing aids, provides two mobile units serving counties in the state of Michigan which request their service, and efforts to get legislation to protect the hearing aid consumer.

"The MABH recently accepted as an affiliate the Michigan Association for the Deaf, which means that the Michigan Association for the Deaf is now eligible for funds from the Michigan United Fund," reported Butler.

Michigan is the first state to combine these two organizations. He also announced that MABH is cooperating with Northern Michigan University in setting up its new audiologic testing center, which will be the only one in the Upper Peninsula.

"Currently," said Butler,

Stahl Butler

"Mrs. Isabelle Nichols, assistant director of MABH, is conducting a survey to pinpoint present needs in order to plan the direction of this agency in the future."

The speaker told of plans for the annual convention of the MABH to be held in Lansing Oct. 14-15. He said that the two subjects to be covered by speakers and panel discussions are the needs of the deaf mentally ill and the promotion of parent participation in the education of deaf children.

The Better Hearing and Speech Society holds monthly meetings at the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce Building from September through May of each year and the next meeting will be held Sept. 28. Anyone desiring information may call Mrs. Rene Labre, ST 6-4027.

Biloxi Greet Legal Liquor

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Police cruisers, sirens screaming and lights flashing, escorted the big truck into Biloxi. The van sped to the plush Broadwater Beach Hotel.

A crowd of onlookers cheered when the truck's rear doors were opened, revealing 77 cases. Three were carried into the hotel by waiters.

Louis Cobb opened one, took out a bottle of scotch whiskey. He poured some into a glass with ice, added a dash of soda and handed it to T. M. Dorsett, the hotel manager.

"Ahh," said Dorsett, lifting the glass.

As Dorsett downed the drink in the glare of a floodlight, Mayor Dan Guice and other officials snipped a tricolor ribbon stretched across the entrance to the lounge.

There were more cheers. It was 6:55 Wednesday night. Drinking on the Mississippi Gulf Coast isn't uncommon.

But Dorsett's tipping had special significance. It was the first legal drink of whiskey poured in Mississippi after 58 years of prohibition, which really never did work.

AWOL, Youth Abandons Car; Eludes Police

Thomas P. Groos, 21, Gladstone Rte. 1, absent without leave from Fort Sheridan, eluded authorities for a second time when he abandoned the auto he was driving and ran into the woods of Wells Township last night.

It was the second time that Groos has escaped Escanaba police. The first time was recently when he climbed out of the window at the police station after asking permission to use the rest room.

Beginning about 11 p. m. Thursday, city police pursued Groos at several locations in the city and the areas of Danforth and Soo Hill. Officers reported that Groos drove at speeds up to 95 miles an hour, sometimes without lights, and refused to halt for the patrol car signals. One officer injured his leg pursuing Groos through the woods.

On a side gravel road in Wells Township Groos jumped from the car and ran, abandoning his car, which was impounded by authorities.

Dartland Ends Sunday Campaign

HOUGHTON — After a hectic and sweltering weekend of traveling, Walter T. Dartland, Democratic candidate in the 38th Senatorial District, states that he will no longer campaign on Sundays.

In a statement at the Houghton County Democratic picnic he said, "I decided to try it for awhile, but have found that the district is too large and the traveling too extensive to include Sundays. This past Sunday was chaotic. Sunday campaigning has disrupted my family life and church attendance."

"I don't see how a man can be a husband, father and campaigner on a Sunday and I'm afraid I would end up doing an injustice to all three roles. Certainly a man's spiritual well-being and family cohesiveness is worth at least one day a week."

Farmhouse Goes To Town

MODEST FARMHOUSE: This traditional New England-style house is lacking in rambling characteristics. Instead, its compact design permits the owner to have a five-room house at the start and to turn it into an 8-roomer whenever necessary.

By ANDY LANG

The ever popular New England farmhouse is given the compact treatment this week. In response to requests for a house of this style to fit on a modest lot, architect Herman H. York has come up with a design that suits the needs of a growing family.

There are two bedrooms on the first floor, with an expansion attic for two additional bedrooms. The area behind the

G-13 STATISTICS

Design G-13 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms, a foyer, outdoor terrace and a garage on the first floor. Total habitable area, not including the terrace and garage, is 1117 square feet on this floor. If the second floor is finished as shown, it provides 708 additional square feet of living space, divided into two large bedrooms and a bath. Overall dimensions are 34' 8" by 32' 4", including the garage.

garage has been laid out as a terrace, but could easily be made into a family room at a later date because two walls are already there. Design G-13 thus can be anything from a five-room to an eight-room house, starting with the lower figure and moving up to the higher as the family grows. Best of all, the original overall dimensions of 34' 8" by 32' 4" which include the garage, do not change as the living area of the house expands.

An important prerequisite to good layout is proper balance in room sizes. This is particularly true in a house which has an expansion potential. The architect has kept the rooms in good relationship here by using a minimum of hall space. A partially open plan, using the corner of the dining room as passage to the bedroom area, eliminates some hallway and additionally gives an impression of spaciousness. A large bay window in the dining room looks out to the rear. There is an attractive fireplace in the living room, set in stone and flanked by vertical wood paneling.

The kitchen is at the rear of

the house, conveniently located between the dining room and the outdoor terrace. If this terrace were made into a family room at a later date, the convenience factor would still hold true. One of the features of the kitchen, with its L-shaped arrangement of working appliances, is a full-height pantry, coming back into style since so many homemakers have been requesting it. Also, there is sufficient room in the kitchen for a dinette table.

Both bedrooms on the first floor have ample closet space and are close to a large bathroom that includes a long vanity. The front bedroom can easily be used as a den if desired. The architect has shown where an optional second door to this room can be located so that entry can be made directly from the foyer. Both rooms in this wing of the house have cross-ventilation.

Upstairs, the layout includes two good-sized bedrooms and a bath. The laundry chute which begins on this floor has an opening on the main floor and extends to the basement. There also is a very sizable storage area that can be utilized whether or not the attic is finished during the original construction or at some later time. Additional storage space is available along an entire side of the garage.

While most of the exterior is covered with wood shingles, brick has been used in the chimney and near the front door and covered portico. The shingles preserve the traditional flavor of a New England farmhouse. The brick expenditure is small, but is utilized where it has the greatest impact.

Conventional and without expensive frills, this house nevertheless should have plenty of appeal for a family of almost any size which wants a comfortable home on a medium-sized lot.

Northern Didn't Tell

Snake Hunt Was Wasted Motion

MARQUETTE — If none of the owners wants Marquette's "missing" boa constrictor, it'll be turned over to the Milwaukee Zoo.

Which is all right with Marquette Police Chief George G. Johnson, whose men had to respond to "sightings" of the reptile ever since it was reported missing here June 9.

It was supposed to have escaped on that date from a student's parked car on the Northern Michigan University campus, but now it turns out that the snake remained in the car and was driven back to Milwaukee by Richard Link, NMU freshman and one of the owners.

It was found in the car about two weeks later and Link wrote Louis Myefski, housing director at the university about it on July 6. Myefski said he turned the letter over to Northern's communications department.

Another letter also was reported to have been sent to the Marquette Chamber of Commerce, which says it never received it.

But nobody notified city police, and in the meantime several persons reported sighting it. Intensive searches, mostly in the university area, were conducted, and police finally concluded it had either died or left the area.

"It is unfortunate that the police department was not notified immediately about the snake having been located," Johnson said. "There has been a lot of unrest in the area because it was thought it was still in the vicinity."

Link, meanwhile, is awaiting word from the other two owners of the reptile — Harold A. Cedarberg, Saginaw, and Mark Leebove, Detroit — about what to do with the 5 foot, 15 pound constrictor.

A 30,000 square foot building is being added to the Goodman Division's veneer plant at Mellen, Wis., to be used for additional storage. It will permit a rearranging of production facilities to improve operating efficiency.

The ferro-silicon plant of the Alamet Division built in 1965 is now in full operation.

Construction of the 47,000 square foot addition to the Wolverine Tube Division tube mill at London, Ontario is progressing on schedule and will be in operation at the end of the year.

It has been estimated that nearly 40 million persons visited national parks in the United States during 1964.

Summer Film Series Begins At Bethany

Bethany Lutheran Church's second annual film series will begin on Monday, Aug. 1 and run through Friday, Aug. 5. Opening devotions will be conducted at 9:30 a.m. by the Dr. Walfred E. Nelson. Films will be shown from 10 to 11 a.m. An interesting series for all ages has been arranged.

Kindergarten through grade three will see another in the series of "Parables From Nature" which was so successful last year. Cartoon-type pictures with such characters as Herring Gull, Mr. Plover, and Milton Mutt will tell the Parables that Jesus told at a child's level of understanding.

The fourth, fifth, and sixth graders will also see the series on parables as well as another fifteen minute film each day. Christian Living will be the general theme for these films. "King of the Block" is one of the five that will be shown. It helps children understand that an attitude of "having everything your own way" is selfishness that leads to unhappiness and loneliness.

The seventh, eighth, and ninth graders will see films in which youth of their ages solve problems in a Christian way. All youth planning to enter this fall's confirmation class are expected to attend. This series is a part of their catechetical training. Everyone is urged to attend the film series and to bring a friend.

Observe Tank Plant Birthday

DETROIT (AP)—A mammoth 50-ton tank was one of the guests of honor as the Chrysler-operated Detroit Tank Plant marked its 24th anniversary this month.

The huge vehicle was the 30,000th combat vehicle built at the Warren, Mich., facility, currently the only active tank manufacturing complex in the United States.

Plant output ranged from tanks to combat engineer vehicles and tank retrievers.

The 1.2 million square foot Army-owned facility was built hastily in the final months before this country was engulfed in World War II.

Chrysler, under the leadership of its then president, the late K. T. Keller, was picked by the government to build the plant. Ground was broken in September, 1940 and the first production tank rolled off the line July 8, 1941, three months before final construction work was done on the huge plant.

The 32-ton General Sherman tank, the backbone of many an American assault during WW II, was one of the tank arsenal's main responsibilities. The Army in Sept. 1941 set a quota of 750 of them a month to be turned out and Chrysler met the figure.

In all, the Chrysler tank plant turned out 22,234 medium tanks of 12 different types—enough to furnish 100 armored divisions—before the war ended.

The Army then took over operation of the plant but when Communist troops invaded South Korea in June, 1950, the tank building program was resumed. Chrysler again got the nod as the tank builder.

Chrysler completed a new tank plant in Newark, Del., and built some of its tanks there from 1952, with the Warren plant primarily on a standby basis.

In 1959, when Chrysler began production of a new M-60 tank, the project was switched to the Detroit Tank Plant again as Chrysler phased out tank output at the Delaware plant by mid-1960.

Wild Goose Has Radio Set Along

TORONTO — A wild goose equipped with a radio and aerial has been reported from Ontario's far northern Patricia area.

To J. D. Sayers, lands and forest trapline manager of officer holding trappers' meetings in Patricia villages, an Indian from Kasabonica recently turned over a leg band and a small transistor radio taken from a goose taken in his trapline area.

The radio weighed about two ounces and was fastened to the goose by a circular aerial which went around its body. It is believed that there was also some sort of harness. The radio was encased in a dental type plaster to prevent moisture penetration.

The bird also wore two plastic discs fastened through its nostrils. It was reported that the goose did not appear to suffer any ill effects from carrying the equipment, perhaps for use in studying its movements. Efforts are being made to determine where it was tagged.

He told newsmen that in his discussions of Viet Nam with old friends in London and Paris: "I find that our effort is not appreciated. But what is more discouraging and more significant, it is not understood. If our aims were better understood, our effort would be more appreciated."

Nixon said he also was "disturbed to see an increasing tendency for the British, and also the French, to withdraw from Asia and leave the United States in a lonely position to help the weaker Asian nations resist Communist expansion."

Fulbright Gets Helms Apology

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new director of the Central Intelligence Agency has apologized to Sen. J.W. Fulbright for a letter expressing pleasure at a newspaper editorial critical of Fulbright.

But CIA head Richard M. Helms still is scheduled to go before Fulbright's Senate Foreign Relations Committee in closed session today, certain to face questioning about the letter published over his name in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

After disclosure of the letter triggered protests and criticism in the Senate, it was learned Helms telephoned Fulbright, apologized and told the senator in substance "it was a mistake and I regret it."

The Arkansas Democrat confirmed receiving the call from Helms. He said the CIA director told him "he was sorry and regretted the letter and said he didn't really feel that way about me."

"I was glad to hear that," Fulbright said.

Nigerian Army Mutiny Reported In Lagos Area

LONDON (AP)—Official reports reaching the British government today said units of the Nigerian army have mutinied in the Lagos area, with some fighting under way.

A plot to topple the military regime of Gen. Johnson Aguiyi Irons was prematurely exposed, according to first dispatches.

This was said to have touched off clashes at the garrison of Abeokuta, where pro-Ironi troops moved in against the mutineers.

Disturbances, nevertheless, spread swiftly toward the capital of Lagos, 50 miles southeast, and unofficial accounts later indicated that the airport on the city outskirts fell to the dissidents. British Overseas Airways Corp. announced in London it had heard all planes were grounded at Lagos airport.

Mid-October Industrial Fete

Eaton Plans Open House

Eaton Yale & Towne, Inc., officials conferred here yesterday with managers of their local operations and with city leaders on plans for an open house party at the firm's big new Gladstone plant in mid-October.

Plant tours for the public and a dinner for industrialists and public officials of the area are to be highlights of the open house program, which will mark start of major operations in Gladstone of Eaton's big new industry in its big new plant. A labor force is now being recruited for the factory under direction of Philip Ensor, personnel director.

Michael J. Saada, of Cleveland, president of Opinion Builders, Inc., a public relations firm which serves Eaton, said at a luncheon meeting Thursday at the House of Ludington that Eaton expects sales of $800 million this year of products from its 76 plants around the world. They employ more than 35,000 workers and the company ranks as the 100th largest industry in America.

It produces products and product components of great variety for the automotive industry and other industries and the Gladstone plant is a part of its Dynamic Division with headquarters at Kenosha, Wis., producing electric motors and products for Eaton's Mechanical Power Transmission Division.

The undertaking of Eaton in building a skilled labor force at Gladstone almost from scratch is not a new one for the big firm, said D. E. Tessendorf, of Kenosha, manager of the Mechanical Power Transmission Division. It did this with a North Carolina plant and has tripled its work force there, and it is doing the same thing in Tennessee.

"One of our big problems in such developments," said Tessendorf, "is not finding labor for training but finding supervisors." It trains them, too; has brought in only 7 persons to Gladstone as a skill cadre upon which to build its work force there and these include clerical workers. All 7 are already homeowners.

"We think the caliber of people here is very good," said Tessendorf. "They are willing and they can be trained." The training will be mostly for machine operation, very little for assembly. "Our products are very important," said Tessendorf, "you cannot transmit power without them."

Gladstone's Competitors. "Our workers are not going to get auto workers' pay because we are not making automobiles. Our products sell for top prices, but we have got to be able to put them on the doorsteps of our customers at competitive costs.

"Gladstone's competitors for the products we'll be making here are in Mayesville, Ky., Chambersburg, Penn., Fort Worth, Tex., and Littleton, Colo., and their wages are lower than ours here. But wages are only a small part of the problem. If we get production we have no problem and if we don't it kills you."

Tessendorf said that Eaton's competitors in the mechanical power transmission product business in Fort Worth, Mayesville and Littleton had no incentive plan for production but that some incentives were used by its competitor in Chambersburg. Eaton does not use incentives. "Workers eventually learn to beat them and get high pay," Tessendorf said.

William Mattie, vice president, said "I came to see how we are coming along with our new plant and to help set up the program for the open house in the fall. We're happy with the full operation at this point and Mike Saada is working with Charlie Burton on the open house."

Burton told the Eaton officials "We all appreciate your coming to the Upper Peninsula and to Delta County. It means a great deal to us. Everything is going along well and this could be a most important meeting and open house for the Upper Peninsula."

"You could have gone to Patuxent or Walla Walla, but you chose to come here. We feel that the Upper Peninsula growth bud is beginning to open and we are glad to have Eaton as a part of the growth, with probably the most modern

Confession Needs Lawyer Present

MACKINAC ISLAND (AP)—A University of Michigan Law School professor warned state prosecutors Thursday that an attorney must be present before a suspect can be interrogated.

B. J. George of U-M told the annual convention of the Prosecuting Attorneys' Association of Michigan that the recent U. S. Supreme Court decision on confessions was not retroactive.

However, he said, a suspect must be advised to remain silent, told that he has a right to an attorney, and that any voluntary statement is ineffective without a lawyer present.

Six members of the association were presented awards for outstanding service to the advancement of criminal jurisprudence.

Association President James Fleming of Jackson made the presentations and received one himself for outstanding service.

Receiving awards were David Bailey, Manistee County prosecutor; Leo Maki, St. Johns, an assistant attorney general; Sam Torina, Wayne County appellate court division; George Parris, Macomb County prosecutor; Jerome Bronson, Oakland County prosecutor; Sam Olsen, Wayne County prosecutor; and Robert Leonard, Genesee County prosecutor.

Gov. George Romney was to address the convention tonight.

Two thoughts for today about our business...

1. On the world picture of the pulp and paper industry
2. On our part in this great picture

1. The consumption of pulp and paper is growing faster than any forecasts had predicted. Campaigns to wipe out illiteracy are succeeding in many countries and requiring more paper. Demands for newsprint, print paper and packaging papers increase.

World demand for paper is expected to at least double every 15 years.

2. Who's going to supply this increased demand?

North America is expected to be an increasingly important supplier for at least 20 years. Soviet Russia has immense wood supplies and is expected to become a more important producer. And Scandinavia isn't bumping its ceiling yet; one Swedish company alone is spending $1 million on forest fertilization, Finland is draining 25 million acres of swamps to boost its pulpwood output.

In the Western Hemisphere major pulp and paper makers are moving southward. Pine from California and Dixie is being transplanted in Brazil, Argentina, Chile and New Zealand, where trees grow three times as fast. Seven North American firms are investing in South American man-made forests.

SO - there will be competition for existing mills in the quest for this increased pulp and paper business. By being productive in labor, inventive and exact in technology and competitive in marketing, we aim to get our share of growth.
